LITERATURE

SILENUS WAS A PRIMITIVE DEITY OF THE WOODLAND AND THE FOUNTAINS WHOM PEOPLE TRIED TO CATCH IN ORDER TO MAKE HIM PROPHECY AND SING TO THEM. THE SON OF HERMÉS AND A NYMPH, OR OF PAN, AS THE OLDEST OF THE SATYRS HE WAS ADDED TO THE TRAIN OF DIONYSUS AND WAS REGARDED AS HIS TEACHER, TRAINER AND CONSTANT COMPANION. HE IS SAID TO HAVE PROMPTED THE GOD TO INVENT THE CULTIVATION OF THE VINE AND THE KEEPING OF BEES. HE IS DESCRIBED AS A LITTLE OLD MAN, POT BELLIED WITH A BALD HEAD, SNUB NOSE, LARGE DONKEY OR ASS'S EARS, AND WITH HIS WHOLE BODY VERY HAIRY. HE WAS USUALLY DRUNK AND HAD TO BE SUPPORTED BY HIS SATYRS

OR BY HIS DONKEY. WHEN INTOXICATED SILENUS WAS SAID TO POSSESS SPECIAL KNOWLEDGE AND THE POWER OF PROPHECY.
