

Finch & C^o

NEW ZEALAND MAORI LONG HAND CLUB 'TIAHA'

A NEW ZEALAND MAORI LONG HAND CLUB 'TIAHA' THE DOUBLE SIDED JANUS HEAD CARVED WITH THE TONGUE THRUST
OUT IN DEFIANCE OF THE ENEMY

THE EYES INLAID WITH HALIOTIS SHELL THE NARROW BLADE WITH FINE SMOOTH SILKY PATINA

EARLY 19TH CENTURY

SIZE: 126CM LONG - 49½ INS LONG

LITERATURE

THE MAORI TIAHA IS PRIMARILY A DEADLY SWORD CLUB AND NOT A SPEAR AS DEPICTED BY MANY ARTISTS. A FLAT SPATULATE BLADE WEAPON GRIPPED IN THE MIDDLE AND USED FOR STRIKING, THE POINTED TONGUE IS AT THE LOWER END AND WAS USED AS A KIND OF PRODDER, BUT WAS ESSENTIALLY THE ORNAMENTAL AND SYMBOLICAL PART OF THE TIAHA. THE BLADE WAS USED AS A CLUB AND ITS EFFECTIVE USE DEPENDED UPON AGILITY RATHER THAN STRENGTH, AND INVOLVED LONG HOURS OF EXERCISE AND PRACTICE TO MASTER THE ELABORATE SYSTEM OF ATTACKS AND COUNTER ATTACKS. AN OLD MAORI PROVERB STATES: 'HE WAEWAE TIAHAHA, HE KIRI MAKU', 'HEAVY FEET, WET SKIN', THAT IS A SKIN WET WITH BLOOD.