LITERATURE

FROM THE MID 16TH CENTURY, WHEN THE FIRST OFFICIAL REGULATIONS WERE INVENTED BY ANTONIO SCAINO FROM SALŸ, 'PALLONE CON BRACCIALE' WAS A PARTICULARLY POPULAR STREET SPORT PLAYED WITH HEAVY SPIKED HOLLOW WALNUT CYLINDERS THAT WERE WORN OVER THE RIGHT OR LEFT FOREARM. THESE WOULD BE USED TO STRIKE INFLATED BALLS BACK AND FORTH ON COURTS OFTEN MARKED OUT ON TOWN SQUARES OR STREETS. A DESIGNATED SERVER CALLED A 'MANDARINO' FIRST PUTS THE BALL INTO PLAY, BUT EACH RECEIVING PLAYER CAN REJECT ANY OF THE SERVES. AS IN THE GAME OF TENNIS, SCORING IS BY FIFTEENS AND TENS WITH THE TEAM THAT WINS 12 GAMES THE WINNER OF THE MATCH. WEIGHING UP TO TWO KILOS, THE 'BRACCIALE' COULD CAUSE SERIOUS INJURIES AMONGST PLAYERS. IT IS SAID THAT THE 16TH CENTURY RENAISSANCE ARTIST VERONESE WAS EXILED FROM VERONA FOR A TIME FOR PUTTING OUT THE EYE OF ANOTHER PLAYER WITH AN ILL-JUDGED SWING.
