THE ANCIENT ROMANS COVETED PORPHYRY, A HARD PURPLE-COLOURED VOLCANIC ROCK PEPPERED WITH WHITE CRYSTALS OF FELDSPAR, AND THE EMPERORS NERO, TRAJAN AND HADRIAN RESTRICTED IT TO IMPERIAL USE. THE EGYPTIAN QUARRIES KNOWN AS 'MONS PORPHYRITES' WERE OPENED IN THE 1ST CENTURY AD AND WORKED FOR

FOUR HUNDRED YEARS. LOCATED IN THE EASTERN DESERT AT GEBEL DOKHAN THEY WERE WORKED EXTENSIBVELY BY THE EMPERORS, NERO, TRAJAN AND HADRIAN. THE EMPERORS RESERVED THE COLOUR PURPLE FOR THEIR OWN USE AND SO PORPHYRY AND THE EGYPTIAN QUARRIES BECAME THEIR EXCLUSIVE ROMAN IMPERIAL PROPERTY.
